House of Blues, Parish room

The House of Blues grew out of founder Isaac Tigrett's love for the unique American art form known as the "the Blues". Weaned on this music during his early childhood in Tennessee, one of Isaac's goals was to introduce the world to the music of the rural south, including the Blues, Rhythm and Blues, Gospel, Jazz and Roots-based Rock & Roll.

The House of Blues is dedicated to educating and celebrating the history of Southern Culture and African American artistic contributions to music and art. Steeped in tradition of the South, many of the artifacts and items represented in the House of Blues have historical significance.

Under every stage in the House of Blues is a metal box filled with Delta Mississippi mud. This box is welded to the structure on the stage to ensure that every artist has the roots and the spirit of the South planted beneath their feet. Our art collection is almost entirely comprised of Folk, Outsider, and Self-Taught artwork and we refer to this style as the "Visual Blues." Currently, the House of Blues is the largest curator of Outsider Art in the world.

Juke Joints are a major inspiration for the House of Blues look and feel. Many southern juke joints are full of hand painted signs and decor: eclectic collections of art, posters, furniture, wall murals, and other sorts of decoration.

Evening Activities:

- 6:30 p.m. - Group departs the Roosevelt in a parade through the historic French Quarter arriving at the House of Blues
- 7-7:30 p.m. - Reception
- 7:30-9ish - Dinner and Live music featuring Royal Dukes Band

The Royal Dues perform all around the world. They play an unusual high energy mix of funk, old-school rock, jazz, current top 40, soul, swing, 80s/70s/90s hits, afro-cuban, country and more – anything to get 'em up and dancing'.
